China: China Coronavirus Lockdown Crippling Global Supply Chain

Full Text

With more than 50 million people on lockdown, economists warn China's efforts to contain the coronavirus outbreak are reverberating through the global economy.

For two weeks major airlines have either scaled back or outright cancelled service to China, and many global retailers, including coffee chain Starbucks and furniture giant IKEA, have announced that they are temporarily closing outlets there. Yum brands, the owner of well-known fast food chains including KFC and Pizza Hut, said that it had been forced to close nearly a third of its stores in the country.

The impact is now growing outside China. This week, Hyundai Motor Company announced that it had been forced to suspend production at its plants in South Korea because parts made in China were no longer available. Nintendo announced that shipments of its popular Switch gaming platform would be...

Understanding Coronavirus Fusion through Structure

Abstract

Two recent coronavirus epidemics highlight the need for vaccine development since no therapeutic currently exists. There are six known human infecting coronaviruses and many others that can infect livestock and household pets. Viral surveys in bat populations suggest many coronaviruses are poised to cross the species barrier, suggesting future outbreaks are likely. Coronavirus are enveloped viruses and infection is mediated by a trimeric spike glycoprotein present on the virion surface. The spike proteins are class I fusion proteins, similar to HIV envelope or influenza hemagglutinin, and are the main target of neutralizing antibodies during infection. The viral tropism and ability for the virus to enter cells is determined by the spike protein which undergoes a large conformational change from its pre-fusion state on the viral surface to the post-fusion state following viral and host membrane fusion. The structure and organization of the coronavirus spike protein had not previously been established. In this dissertation, I begin by investigating the architecture of the coronavirus spike protein from various different genus's and infection hosts. Using state of the art single particle cryo-electron microscopy we were able to solve two near atomic resolution structures of the first β-coronavirus and α-coronavirus spike proteins and elucidate their commonalities and differences. In order to better understand the fusion transition, we also solved the first structure of a β-coronavirus spike protein in the

GANDHI SENTENCED.

SIX YEARS SIMPLE IMPRISONMENT.

ADMISSIONS IN COURT.

Ahmedabad, Saturday.

Gandhi has been sentenced to six years' simple imprisonment.

Sunday.

When in the course of his trial yesterday Gandhi was asked by the magistrate if he pleaded guilty to all the charges, the Advocate General pointed out that the sentenced in "Young India" condemned merely part of a campaign to spread disaffection, openly and systematically, to render government impossible, and to bring about its overthrow. They were not the writers of an uneducated or obscure man. "It is true," the Advocate General said, "that in these articles non-violence is insisted upon, but of what value is insistence on non-violence if you immediately preach disaffection against the Government and openly seek to instigate others to overthrow it?"

Gandhi then made a long statement in which he admitted that he preached disaffection towards the existing system of government.

MR. GANDHI'S APPEAL.

NON-VIOLENCE IN THOUGHT, WORD, AND DEED.

By G. F. Andrews.

Bombay, Friday.

Mr. Gandhi resumed the editorship of "Young India" to-day. He states that his belief in non-violent Non-Cooperation is unshaken, and adds the following passage:

"God, I know, is truth, for me the only certain means. Knowing God is non-violence—namely, love. I live for India's freedom, and would die for it, because it is part of truth. Only free India can worship the true God. My patriotism is not exclusive. Indian freedom as conceived by me benefits the whole world. Consciously or unconsciously the majority of us broke our pledge of non-violence. Therefore our own countrymen are filled with distrust. Hindus and Mussulmans have
HIGH PRAISE FOR INDEPENDENCE BILL IN INDIA

Britain’s “Atonement for the Past”

From our Special Correspondents

NEW DELHI, JULY 6.

The Indian press today unanimously acclaims the Indian Independence Bill as the "noblest" legislation ever enacted by the British Parliament. The only criticism of it is its vague-ness about the future of the Indian States. Congress dissatisfaction with the Bill's treatment of this subject is summed up by "The Indian News Chronicle," whose comment is typical:

With the lapse of paramountcy, States big and small are left to drift for themselves. To add to the confusion they are permitted free option to join one Constituent Assembly or the other without regard to geographical continuity or to resultant political complications.

If only that the rulers will realize that their so-called "independence" is only illusory and that they will soon come to arrangements with contiguous Dominions calculated to maintain geographical integrity on the one hand and to strengthen a free country on the other.

MR. GANDHI TO RETIRE FROM POLITICS: Will Live in Pakistan

From our Special Correspondent

NEW DELHI, AUGUST 7.

Mr. Gandhi, who has just returned from a visit to Kashmir, announced today that after August 15 he would retire from politics and would spend the rest of his life in Pakistan, striving to restore Indian unity.

He will not attend any of next week's celebrations and is now on his way to Noakhali, in East Bengal, the scene of some of the worst disturbances last year's communal rioting. Mr. Gandhi more than any other single man has helped to bring independence to India, but he has steadfastly refused to accept partition.
